

Treaty stream (Tuvalu) visa

Hi Litia! I see you've been selected in the ballot for Australia's Treaty stream visa for Tuvaluans. Congratulations!

Yes, I'm excited to move to Australia soon! I'm bringing my family too.

Have you applied for your visa yet?

No, I thought the invitation means I have a visa.

Your invitation to apply is not a visa - you still need to apply for it. You have 60 days to apply from the time you got your Notification of Selection letter.

How do I apply?

First, gather your information and documents. Scan this QR code for a checklist of things we might need.

Go to the link in your invitation letter, or login to your ImmiAccount. Complete the application, attach a copy of your passport and other documents, pay the visa application charge and press submit.

What if I don't have all the documents when I apply?

Provide those documents as soon as you can, for example, birth certificates for all visa applicants.

You can do this after you apply, but the sooner you submit those documents, book your health checks, and provide any extra information we ask for, the sooner we can process your application.

Do I need to provide information about family coming with me?

Include all eligible family members coming with you in your application when you first apply. Unless they were born after you apply, you cannot add them later.

If family members are still waiting for their passport or other documents, you can also submit these details after you apply.

Where can I get help if I need it?

You can get support in Tuvalu at the Hub.

To make a booking with the Falepili Union team, email falepilipathway@pevsupport.com.au or come into the Hub.

Address: Kiatoa's place (opposite Ioasa's house) on the Vaiaku side.
Opening hours: Monday to Friday, 8:30am to 4:30pm

We're looking forward to welcoming you to Australia, Litia. Don't forget to apply for your visa in time.

Selected in the Treaty stream (Tuvalu) visa?

Remember to apply for your visa within 60 days of being invited.
