

Who should use this form?

This form should be used by Australian legal practitioners seeking a Legal Practitioner Number (LPN) to enable them to create and manage applications through ImmiAccount.

What is immigration assistance?

A person gives immigration assistance if he or she uses, or purports to use, his or her knowledge or experience in migration procedure to assist a person with matters related to the Migration Act 1958.

The most common times assistance is provided is during visa application processes, visa cancellation processes or sponsorship processes (including monitoring or sanctions).

Note: Immigration assistance does not include simply filling in an application form, translating or interpreting or passing on information about an application without comment or explanation.

Legal practitioners

A legal practitioner is a lawyer who holds an Australian legal practising certificate (whether restricted or unrestricted) granted under a law of a state or territory.

Legal practitioners can provide immigration assistance in connection with legal practice.

Australian legal practitioners will be regulated by the relevant state or territory legal professional bodies.

Consent to communicate electronically

The Department of Home Affairs (the Department) may use a range of means to communicate with you. By providing an email address, you are indicating your agreement to receiving communication in this way.

Electronic communications, unless adequately encrypted, are not secure and may be viewed by others or interfered with.

If you agree to the Department communicating with you by electronic means, the details you provide will only be used by the Department for the purpose for which you have provided them or for the purpose of sending you communications relevant to the Department's migration program, unless it is authorised or required by law, you have consented to the use or the use meets one of the other exceptions in the Privacy Act 1988.

The Australian Government accepts no responsibility for the security or integrity of any information sent to the Department over the internet or by other electronic means.

Important information about privacy
